

Killam Fellowships for American Students

The Killam Fellowships Program provides an opportunity for exceptional undergraduate students from universities in the United States to spend either one semester or a full academic year as an exchange student in Canada. Students may participate in the program either as a direct exchange student (registering at their home university, paying their home fees, and attending the host university as an exchange visitor) or as a self-placed visiting student (registering at the host university and paying host tuition fees). American applicants interested in the direct exchange program must be registered at one of our partner universities in the United States and be planning to visit one of our partner Canadian universities.

Award Benefits

The Killam Fellowships Program provides a cash award of $5,000 US per semester ($10,000 for the full academic year), an orientation in Ottawa, and a seminar in Washington. In addition, the Foundation provides all Killam Fellows with a health insurance allowance of $500 CAD. All Killam Fellows are also eligible to apply for a mobility (in-country travel) grant in an amount not to exceed $800 CAD. The mobility initiative allows students to undertake an educational field trip, providing an opportunity to gain a more comprehensive understanding of Canadian culture.

For application instructions and to learn more about the Killam Fellowships Program, visit www.killamfellowships.com. The deadline for the open competition is January 31.

For the direct exchange program, contact a study abroad advisor at your institution. This information is found in the instructions that are available on our website.

All awards are subject to the availability of funds, acceptance by the host university, and the ability to secure appropriate visa arrangements.

"The Killam Fellowship Program is not simply an exchange, it is much more. I feel as though I have joined a community that will always be there to support me in the future."
